About the University

Feng Chia University (FCU), founded in 1961, is a leading comprehensive university in Taichung.

Its motto is "Different but Better". The university comprises 10 colleges offering bachelor's, master's and doctoral programs in business, humanities, social sciences, finance, architecture, construction, engineering, information & electrical engineering, and international technology management.

FCU is known for CDIO international engineering education, Taiwan's first Fraunhofer Innovation Platform, and expertise in AI, semiconductors, smart manufacturing, aerospace, and green energy. Many of its professors have been ranked among the world's top 2% scientists.

The main campus is in Xitun District, Taichung – Taiwan's second largest city, lively and well-connected (1 hour by HSR to Taipei or Kaohsiung). FCU also provides excellent dormitories and a Chinese Language Center for international students.

About the Program

Feng Chia University offers intensive summer and winter sessions on campus. All courses are taught in English and carry academic credits. Students can choose from a wide range of subjects: humanities, social sciences, natural sciences, computer science, business, and engineering.

The program is ideal for Australian students (or any international students) who wish to earn credits efficiently during their break, while experiencing Taiwanese culture. Beyond the classroom, students can attend social events, city tours (e.g., Taichung Opera House, Feng Chia Night Market, Gaomei Wetland), and academic seminars.

Eligibility

High school graduates, undergraduates, or graduate students , aged 16+
Good English proficiency (TOEFL iBT 57 / IELTS 4.0 / TOEIC 550 or equivalent recommended)
